

TIM MUYS

Golf Course Superintendent

Tim Muys is a Golf Course Superintendent with more than two decades of hands-on experience in turf management and course operations. He is known for maintaining high standards, solving problems in real time, and delivering consistent playing conditions.

His approach to agronomy is practical and detail-focused, combining proven methods with lower-input practices that support long-term soil health and performance. He does his own research, trusts observation and experience, and focuses on what works rather than trends or marketing.

Tim has led the grow-in and establishment of two golf courses and has served as Superintendent at Piper's Heath Golf Club since 2006. In addition to course operations, he manages large teams and oversees complex workforce planning, including international seasonal workers.

He has contributed to the profession through leadership roles as President of the Ontario Golf Course Superintendents' Association and the IPM Council of Canada, and regularly shares his experience with peers through industry events and speaking engagements.
